

Major L. Clark, III has over 30 years experience in corporate administration, business development, congressional legislative operations, urban planning, housing, economic development, and as an educator. Mr. Clark began his current position in 1998 as Assistant General Counsel for Procurement Policy in SBA's Office of Advocacy. Additionally, he has served in the following capacities: Executive Vice President, Corporate Development and Administration for an information technology consultancy (MAXIMA Corporation); Chief of Staff and Senior Administrative Officer, U.S. House of Representatives; and Associate Graduate Professor, Morgan State University. He is a national speaker on topics including small business, urban development and planning, land use law, consumer law, transportation and economic development strategies.